MORE FROM CONSUMERSEARCH.COM 1 / 17 iStock/Andregric Remove stickers from your furniture, windows, or the bumper of your car by blowing warm air on them. You can also remove contact paper from shelves by evenly blowing warm to hot air over the surface. 2 / 17 After you wash your salt and pepper containers, blast the inside with some hot air before refilling; this way nothing will clump or stick to the sides. 3 / 17 Mold your glasses to fit your head by heating up the ends and shaping them to comfortably fit your ears. This is perfect for those cheap sunglasses that keep falling off your face. This is not recommended for expensive glasses. Have a professional do that. 4 / 17 Shrink-wrap plastic wrap or a plastic bag around a container by applying warm air to the sides. Your leftovers will stay fresh longer. 5 / 17 Get the wax off of your table or furniture after a romantic candle light dinner by heating it up with a hair dryer and wiping it away with a damp cloth. You can also remove crayon from walls using this same technique. Here are more tricks to get crayon off the walls. 6 / 17 Wrap the cord around a pencil and apply warm heat evenly. Perfect for car chargers that are constantly getting in your way. 7 / 17 Give the frosting on your cake or cupcakes a glossy finish by blasting the surface with some warm air. Try this trick to frost a cake perfectly every time. 8 / 17 Blast hard to reach places with cool air to remove dust. Use this method on your keyboard, plants, and intricate furniture. 10 / 17 Put on your shoes wearing a pair of thick socks. Blow hot air onto your shoes focusing on the areas where you feel the most discomfort. Wiggle your toes around while heating up your shoes to make them expand. Once you stop applying heat, keep your shoes on until they cool down and then enjoy wearing them blister free. 11 / 17 Have an early flight to catch but want to sneak in a last minute shower before you're covered in plane germs? Simply dry off your loofa or sponge with a hairdryer after your shower and pop it in your suitcase. Dry, clean, and ready to go. 12 / 17 Apply heat to the adhesive before removing it. This will make it less sticky and less painful to peel off. 13 / 17 If your hotel room doesn't have a microwave, heat up leftovers with the hairdryer. 14 / 17 Remove wrinkles from clothes, table clothes, and shower curtains. Spray them a few times with water and then blast them with hot air until the fabric is wrinkle free. 15 / 17 Thaw frozen vegetables or meat from the freezer. This is perfect for when meat gets frozen together. After a minute or two of being blow dried it will easily separate. 16 / 17 Put the nozzle attachment on the hairdryer and point it at the stain. Begin blowing cool air on it and slowly increase the heat until the stain is gone. 17 / 17 Simply blast the screw with hot air for a few seconds and it should easily come out. To work a delicate photograph off one of those sticky pages, blow warm air onto the back of the page while gently tugging the photo free. 2. Dust tough-to-reach places. Set the dryer on cool and point it at dusty shelves or intricate knickknacks to blow the debris right off. (Start from the highest shelf to make gravity work for you.) 3. Dewrinkle plastic shower curtains or table-cloths. Blow hot air onto fresh-out-of-the-bag material to "iron" out wrinkles—just keep the dryer 12 inches from the surface so it won't melt. 4. Perfect frosting or icing. To harden frosting on cakes or cookies, blow cool air directly on it. To brighten a dull finish, give the icing a hit of hot air. 5. Erase crayon marks or wax spills. Kids gone wild? Blow-dry the stain on high until the wax melts, then wipe with a soapy sponge.
